| 照片 |  The image consists of two side-by-side black and white photographs. Both photographs show a close-up of a person's face, specifically the cheek area, where a pimple is being treated. In the left photograph, a hand is holding a syringe-like toy with a needle-like tip, which is being applied to the pimple. In the right photograph, the same syringe-like toy is being used to squeeze the pimple, with a small amount of material being extruded from the tip. The background is a textured, light-colored surface, possibly a bedsheet or pillow. |
