

The Ants and the Grasshopper

One bright day in late autumn a family of ants was rushing about in the warm sunshine. They had worked very hard all summer, gathering enough food to last during the cold winter months. Now they were drying out the grain and grass that they had saved. A starving grasshopper came up. He had his violin under his arm and begged very sadly for something to eat.

"What?" the ants shouted as they worked. "You want us to give you something to eat? You should have worked hard all last summer to save enough food for the coming winter. What in the world were you doing with your time?"

"I did not have time to think about saving any food for the winter," complained the grasshopper. "I was too busy making music and having fun. Before I knew it, the summer had come to an end."

The ants were shocked at the grasshopper's laziness.

"You were making music, were you?" they cried. "Very well; now you can dance!" Then they turned their backs on the grasshopper and went on with their work. 108 學年度臺南市北區文元國小校內語文競賽英語朗讀比賽文章(四年級)

The Bat and the Weasel

By mistake, a bat fell into the nest of a weasel, who rushed to catch and eat him. The bat begged for his life but the weasel would not listen.

"You are a mouse," he said. "I am the enemy of mice. I eat every mouse I catch!" "I am not a mouse!" cried the bat. "Look at my wings. Can mice fly? Why, I am only a bird! Please let me go!"

The weasel could see that the bat was not a mouse, so he let him go. A few days later, the foolish bat fell into the nest of another weasel. This weasel happened to be an enemy of birds. He quickly had the bat in his claws and was ready to eat him.

"You are a bird," he said, "and I am going to eat you!"

"What," cried the bat, "you think that I am a bird? Why, all birds have feathers! Oh, no, I am just a little mouse."

The weasel could see that the bat was not a bird, and let him go. So, the bat saved his life a second time. 108 學年度臺南市北區文元國小校內語文競賽英語朗讀比賽文章(四年級)

A Kind Person

George works as a police officer, and he is always kind to everyone. Whenever he sees people in need, he will rush to help them out. For example, he will not stop homeless people who beg for money. Instead, he will give them some change to make sure they have food to eat. If he knows old people who are sick and in need of help, he will send someone out to take care of them. Also, he will not give tickets to people who lose control of their dogs, even if the dogs run around everywhere.

One day, George was walking on the street. He saw a little girl crying. "What's the matter?" George asked. "Is there anything I can do for you?" The little girl looked at George and said, "I lost my purse on my way home." George asked, "What does it look like? Is there anything in it?" "It is a small, purple purse. My mother gave it to me as a present for my tenth birthday.
